QUARANTINE LIFTED ON THIS PART OF STATE

Fat Cattle Feeders May Ship To Markets Now—Question Of Reimbursement For Losses

County Judge James P. Bailey on Friday morning received a telegram from the government's cattle inspector that the quarantine against Lincoln county had been lifted and that fat cattle may now be shipped to market. All of the counties in Kentucky except 40 in the infected area have been released from quarantine.

On Tuesday Gov. McCreary received word from the Secretary of Agriculture stating that he had made arrangements to release from federal quarantine all Kentucky counties except the following: Kenton, Campbell, Boone, Grant, Gallatin, Carroll, Owen, Scott, Bourbon, Fayette, Jessamine, Woodford, Henry, Franklin, Trimble, Oldham, Shelby, Anderson, Washington, Nelson, Spencer, Jefferson, Ballard, Meade, Hardin, Laclede, Marion, Taylor, Green, Hart, Grayson, Breckinridge, Edmonson, Metcalfe, Barren, Allen, Warren, Logan, Simpson and Todd.

The most rigid inspection and quarantine will be kept over these counties. The infected and exposed cattle will be killed and buried wherever possible. The state will have to pay 50 per cent of the cost of the value of the cattle as appraised.

Gov. McCreary will endeavor to secure the appraised value of the cattle that must be slaughtered in this state. If the amount is reasonable, he will likely give assurance to the cattle men that they will be reimbursed.

Senator Camden has advised the governor that in his judgment it would be wise to co-operate with the Secretary of Agriculture, as suggested—that is, to assure the cattle men that they will be reimbursed for the cattle killed at 50 per cent of their appraised value. He says that this method is essential to protect the remainder of the state from the quarantine.

The Secretary of Agriculture at Washington was very firm in repudiating the suggestion of Commissioner J. W. Newman that the federal government should pay the whole value of the slaughtered cattle, according to a dispatch from Washington. He said Kentucky was the first state through a duly authorized official to suggest any plan other than the half-and-half whereby the government and state are each to supply equal portions of the cattle, redemption fund.

In a telegram to Senator Ollie James, asking the Senator to introduce a bill to force the government to redeem all, Commissioner Newman declared the question to be solely an interstate one. Secretary Houston told Senator James, who had asked him what his attitude would be toward such a bill, that this was not so. "The epidemic is just now decidedly a state, local and individual matter in Kentucky, I should think," said he. "If the federal government should guarantee Kentucky individually, all the other states would do the same and the result would be a condition of isolation that would certainly be inoperative. That, I believe, would be conceded should that unfortunate condition arise."

The Secretary told Senator James that he would be dead against such a bill, and the Senator remarked later that there was consequently no hope of procuring the legislation with the Secretary in that frame of mind.

Mr. Houston said that he considered the half-and-half plan satisfactory and that congress has heretofore approved it. The Secretary has wired Gov. McCreary that he has changed his mind about the efficacy of an extra session of the legislature on the grounds that it would take too long to accomplish the purpose desired. In this connection, the Secretary in his telegram suggested that the matter can be handled in another way.

"Governors of all states have given assurance of reimbursement by state, which has been accepted by people," he telegraphed. "Can you not do this? On second thought this seems to be absolutely the only solution."

Senator James explained that the governor could issue certificates of a promise to pay, which could be redeemed by the next legislature that assembled.

Federal inspectors have recommended Washington the reopening of the Bourbon stockyards at Louisville, which has been closed the pens to shipments from south-for nearly a month on account of the foot and mouth infection, under restrictions the nature of which are not officially made known. However it was said, unofficially, that a plan to open the pens to shipment from southern states consigned to other than Kentucky points for immediate slaughter had been recommended. Only such shipments would be handled.

CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

Rolling Fork Farmer Loses Home and Little Ones—West End News

Hustonville, Dec. 4. Dave B. Watson, of the Rolling Fork section, eleven miles west of here in Casey county, lost his house and contents and two children, five and three years old, were burned to death. Mr. Watson was out getting wood and Mrs. Watson was out milking. When they discovered the flames bursting out of their home, immediately rushed for the house. The mother tried to enter the house, but was kept back by her husband, who realized that it was impossible to enter the burning house, which was ready to fall in at any time. After the fire had burned low, the bodies of the two children were located and taken out of the burning embers. Both of the bodies were badly burned, the arms and heads being entirely separated from the bodies. Mrs. Watson is in a very serious condition, due to the burns she received while trying to enter the house after her little ones.

Frank Huns weighed up the 84 head of hogs that he had been feeding for A. W. Carpenter for the past few weeks, which weighed 86 pounds when he received them on Nov. 25th. MIDDLEBURG

Miss Essie Hanes has just returned from an extended visit to relatives at Somerset.

The Big Minstrels gave a performance at the college here on the night of the 21st, that was greatly enjoyed by a crowded house. The troupe is made up of local talent, and their performances are said to be well worth the price of admission.

Rev. C. T. Claunch, who attended General Association of the Baptists at Somerset, speaks in the highest terms of the Somerset people, and says that it was the opinion of all present that it was the best meeting of the kind ever held in the state. He said there were more preachers than you could shake a stick at and a large majority of them of the biggest kind of minds.

Miss Ophelia Mobley, of McKinney came down on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 22d, and organized a W. M. U. at the Baptist church. She is working for the mission cause under the supervision of Dr. W. D. Lowell, of Louisville, and has been assigned the duty of organizing the ladies of the Baptist churches of this section so that a better system of work might be inaugurated. She is said to be quite efficient in the work, and is meeting with success.

Rev. C. T. Claunch has resigned as pastor of the Baptist church here to take effect Jan. 1st. A business meeting of the church will be held Saturday, Dec. 12th, when likely a pastor for next year will be called.

Rev. Luther Young, of Adair county, preached at the Yosemite Christian church Sunday. It is understood that he is likely to be called to the pastorate of that church.

This has been some pumpkin year, and we have noticed in the Interior Journal, that several have been reported as weighing from 50 to 80 pounds which were cymbals, compared with pumpkins raised in this section. It is estimated that a thousand earlods were grown on Green River Valley from here to Danville, and farmers along the valley only gathered the largest, such as would weigh 100 pounds and up, leaving the smaller ones to rot in the fields.

The editor of the Casey County News like a spoiled child flies off the handle every time he is corrected of wrong doing. He "clouded up" last week and came back at us in his usual pettish mood because we dared to correct his report of the vote in the recent election in this county. In making the correction we did not intimate that Mr. Thomas had prevaricated, but since thinking the matter over we are persuaded that his actions were a little "shady," because three issues of his paper had gone to his readers since he reported the republican majority to have been 317 and no correction had been made and perhaps would never have been made had not we mentioned it in the columns of the Interior Journal. Mr. Thomas is publishing a newspaper and his readers are entitled to the truth, however painful it may be for him to give it.

Our informant had not examined the returns at the clerk's office when he asked us to correct the report as sent out by the News, but was guided by the reports as they came in on the night of the election, which showed a majority of 217. Now it will be seen that he only missed it 17 votes while John Henry and his paper missed it 89. Now, in conclusion, we want to say that we accept John Henry statement as to the true majority 228, and if there was any prevarication done by us, which did the biggest prevarication and why, did Mr. Thomas prevaricate at all with the figures right under his nose? We ask the readers of this article to judge for themselves.

Only Highest Quality Weed Brings Satisfactory Prices—Lincoln Growers Top Markets

A large number of Lincoln county tobacco men attended the opening sales at the two Danville warehouses Wednesday. Prices realized were considerably under those of last season, but buyers say that the quality of the weed offered has for the most part been very poor. The highest price at the People's house, was paid for a Lincoln crop, that Ken Martin, near Turnersville, who put 1,900 pounds on the market and got an average of 13 cents a pound for it. S. R. Sanders, of Hubble, sold 800 pounds at 10 1-2 cents. The highest price paid during the day at the Danville Tobacco house was 15 1-2 cents, but only good grades of tobacco are bringing figures that approach prices paid last season. At that, the prices paid at the Danville breaks were several cents higher than were paid at Lexington at the opening sales on Tuesday.

G. M. Lyons, of Lancaster, To Run Stores Here and There

Hughes & Martin, sold their dry goods store on Main street, Stanford, last week, to G. M. Lyons, of Lancaster, and the store has been closed for the past few days while invoicing has been going on. Mr. Lyons recently bought the store of R. S. Brown, at Lancaster, and will operate both establishments, conducting them on up-to-date plans and quoting prices, which he says, will get the business. He is a hustler and will be cordially welcomed to the community. Neither L. R. Hughes nor Wm. Martin, late proprietors of the store, have decided just yet whether they will engage in another business here, or not.

Dr. Early's subject at the Baptist church Sunday morning will be The Christian's Peace—John 13: 33.
